Notice

All subscriptions are entered in our records by volume and number, rather than by year of publication. Thus, a one-year subscription entitles the subscriber to three issues; a two-year subscription to six issues.

New subscriptions automatically begin with the next issue, unless the subscriber specifies otherwise. For example, all new subscriptions received after the publication of the current issue (19:3) will begin with Volume 20, Number 1, unless the subscriber requests that his term begin with an earlier issue. Renewals received at any time will automatically extend the customer's current subscription by three or six issues, as the case may be.

When ordering back issues, please refer to volume and number, if known, rather than date of publication.
